

SCNF is a non-profit organisation providing a premium events network, online resource and user forum for Local Authorities choosing multi-application smart card schemes to improve service delivery, adding value by bringing together the smartest users and the most innovative providers.

By including everyone from interested beginners to experienced practitioners, we help councils:

- Research smart card requirements
- Understand the benefits to citizens
- Identify total costs and savings
- Design, set up and run a local scheme
- Learn from live projects
- Enable best practice procurement

How to get involved

SCNF membership is FREE for anyone in the public, voluntary or non-profit sectors with an interest in smart card applications.

Founded in 2001, we are entirely independent and exist for local authorities to exchange information, ideas and experience about smart card technology and applications. We run 3-4 events per year, represent members' interests to central government organisations and agencies, and engage with the commercial sector. The comprehensive SCNF website at www.scnf.org.uk provides a range of services to members, output from previous events and hosts the National Smart Card Project archive.

SCNF has more than 500 registered members, from over 250 different local, regional and national government bodies.
